

CLOSE CONCERN AS PRESIDENT IS MISSING

New York Realty Company's Books Are Now Under Examination.

WHERE IS MIDDLETON?

Capital Stock of Corporation Is Given as $1,000,000 in Its Literature.

Following the disappearance of William Middleton, President of the New York Realty Corporation, who has not been seen for a week, the doors of the concern at No. 81 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street were closed to-day and an examination of the books was begun. Salaries of employees of the New York Realty Corporation are overdue, and Middleton, when he left his office last Thursday night, said he was going to Washington to get money and would be back in a few days.

The New York Realty Corporation has a suite of four offices in the Mount Morris Bank Building. It was organized by Middleton last September, and dealt in suburban real estate, buying unimproved property and building houses for persons willing to pay for their homes on the installment plan. The literature of the company states that the capital stock is $1,000,000, but when this amount is mentioned to the employees they smile in a tired way.

Handled All the Money.
Middleton was the president and general manager. He lived in White Plains, where he had a branch office, which he opened about two weeks ago.

Other officers of the company were Herbert Richmond and William Wessel. The latter is in charge of the offices. He says that Middleton handled all the money.

Recently it was reported that the New York Realty Company had bought the Gary estate at Scarsdale, which is valued at $105,000. But when salaries were due last week Middleton announced to his office force of four men that he had no money. He looked his desk Thursday night and has not been seen in Harlem or White Plains since.

The office was kept open until 10 o'clock to-day, when an Evening World reporter called to ask for information of Middleton. As soon as he was informed the doors were locked, and later it was learned that some of the directors, Mr. Wessel and two experts from the office of R. G. Dun & Co.'s Mercantile Agency were going over the books.

Mr. Wessel refused to give the names of the directors. He said that he thought the liabilities would not exceed the assets, but admitted that he knew very little about either.

Looked Prosperous.
The White Plains office of the New York Realty Company was in charge of a young woman to-day. She said that Middleton employed her two weeks ago, and that she has not seen him since a week ago yesterday.

Middleton was not known in Harlem real-estate circles. It is said that he came to New York from Washington or Philadelphia. The general supposition was that his concern was prosperous. Mr. Wessel showed The Evening World reporter plans for about a dozen dwellings that the corporation has been requested to build since the disappearance of Middleton. The plans call for the expenditure of from $5,000 to $20,000 per dwelling.

BITTEN BY RATTLER AS HE DREW FANGS.

Leash About Head of Snake Slipped and It Struck Man Who May Die from Bite.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 9.—Adolph Ferranto, of this city, who tried to draw the fangs of a big rattlesnake on exhibition at his place of business last night, was so badly bitten that he is now in a precarious condition and may not recover.

The snake's head slipped from the leash in which he held it and Ferranto was bitten on the forearm so deeply that the poison got into the blood immediately. A physician happened to be passing and this fact saved Ferranto from a speedy death.

WILL BE TURNED INTO A STORE

Old Russell Sage Home on Fifth Avenue Being Remodelled into a Business Building by Commodore Gerry.

The old home of Russell Sage, at No. 505 Fifth avenue, for many years, a bulwark against the northward trend of the tide of business is to be turned into a store. Contracts were let to-day for the installation of an elevator, the construction of an extension in the rear and remodeling the front of the building.

Russell Sage, driving down Fifth avenue, looks with pain and sorrow on his old home, sacrificed to the demands of trade. He fought for the old place until Commodore Gerry, the owner of the house, raised the rent on him and then he moved, but he left many memories when he took his household goods to a mansion further up the avenue.

No. 505 is just north of Forty-second street. When Delmonico's and Sherry's places moved up to the corner of Forty-fourth street commercial enterprises followed suit. The old hotel at the northwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-second street was converted into a business block. The next house to that occupied by Russell Sage was leased for a candy store.

Fumes of cooking sweets floated in the back windows of the Sage mansion and disturbed Mr. Sage and his wife. Mrs. Sage was shocked by the spectacle of young men feeding their pigs dogs and cats at the soda water fountain.

Other business enterprises invaded the block, and the aged millionaire was really inconvenienced, but he maintained that he would stick until he died.

When his lease ran out, and Commodore Gerry raised the rent. This was effective. Mr. Sage consented to leave the house that had sheltered him for more than a score of years and was convenient to the Sixth avenue "L."

WANT HIGGINS TO REMOVE KILBURN.

BUFFALO, June 9.—At the regular weekly meeting of the German Bank Creditors' Association the committee to look into the action of F. D. Kilburn, State Superintendent of Banks, in regard to the German Bank reported censuring Mr. Kilburn's methods. The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That Supt. Kilburn should and ought to be removed from office and some person selected and substituted in his stead more capable and efficient to perform the duties of that office."

WEDDING GUESTS GAYLY CHASE BRIDAL COUPLE.

Showers of Rice After Marriage of Miss Dorothea Wilson to Charles E. Kimball.

One of the prettiest June weddings of the year took place yesterday at Westfield, N. J., when Miss Dorothea Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, was married to Charles E. Kimball, of that town. Among the many guests from out of town present at the ceremony were about sixty of the bride's friends from her old home in Brooklyn.

The house was decorated with palms and flowers. The bride's train was led by Misses Ruth Wilson, Hutchinson and Robert Blair Cross as bridesmaids. The bridesmaids were Miss Margaret Kimball, of New York, and Miss Mabel Kimball, sister of the bridegroom, and the ushers were William R. Wilson and Harold Thompson. The best man was Jean Jones.

The bride wore a gown of white crepe de Chine, a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. After the wedding supper the young couple started on a trip through the West. The entire wedding party pursued them out of town on trolley cars, in carriages and by train. They cheerfully gave out to the guests, and they must have used nearly half a ton of rice in giving the couple a proper start in life.

Former Senator Dead.
Former State Senator John G. Schenck, eighty-two years old, died yesterday afternoon at his home at Newburgh Station, N. J. He had been in failing health for several weeks.
